The Inches tens, and handreds. -additional version of the fall in a morning paper, that Abdul Hamid is more radical than his late i Grand Vizier, may be dismissed as mere moonshine. In one of Turkey's former death-throes, as fur back as 1617, old Knolles and other writers had already for some time been performing the role of Cassandra for the derelict Empire; and also at a time when foreign enemy was disturbing the turbulently turgid stream of Ottoman politics, Mustafa I., an imbecile, like ex-Sultan Murad V., was proclaimed King of Kings and Commander of the Faithful. But the king makers of those days the Janissaries (like the Softas of the present time), capuized their dinner-kettles—their method of proclaiming revolt—and pulled their idiot Padisha off the throne after a three months' reign, the same term enjoyed -or rather not enjoyed-by the ex-Sultan Murad V. After a four years' toleration of their new puppet, Othman II., they were pleased to resort again to their soup-kettles, estensibly because a campaign against Polance had miscarried badly (chiefly owing, however, to their own turbulence and indiscipline), but really because Othman II. had evinced symptoms of having a will of his own and of getting rid of them. Othman II. was deposed and murdered. The wretched Mustafa was city, with Two SAILS, Two CHAIRS, ONE ANbrought from his prison to the Seraglio, and CHOE, &c., &c. again saluted as Padisha for fifteen months, till the king-makers and wire pullers found that a sovereign may be even too great an idiot for their purposes. He was therefore finally desposed and definitively strangled. It is just possible that Midhat Pasha has been trying to resuscitate this cheerful episode of his country's annals, without the strangling portion of it finding Abdul Hamid too vacillating and infirm of purpose under the conflicting interests and connects around him, especially those of the Old Turkish party: But that a man of his undoubted talent and associty could have hoped anything from such an idiot as the unfortunate Murad undonbtedly is, or dreamt of substituting himself in the place of the sacred race of Othman, is contrary to all precedents of Turkish history and probability. this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of sate years bee compelled to coin to express the numerous of jectam machinery photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained forming exereises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The type graphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness no previously attained, and dispensing with those DOUND VOLUMES of the China Overland | vast margins and vacant spaces which have haratofore characterized Chinese publications. heretofore characterized Chinese publications. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Ching, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration.

AMATEUR EDITORS. The brief literary career of the Month Chronicle is unique, curious, and amusing a certain way. It was started under the join of sentimentality, and women of the Roman time, Sir David Brewster, Sir E. Bulwer, and populace talk as familiarly of the latest Dr. Lardner. Being all three proprietors and editors, and each too great to communicat his intentions to either of the others (or ever give a definite reply to the contributor, as part of the wretched assassin. There is found), a beautiful confusion was the constant nothing to be done for the dead man, but and necessary result. The magazine, how the other interesting, much to be compast ever, was successfully advancing by reason sionated criminal, who has had the mistor the prestige of the three names, when the tune to kill somebody, he, indeed, may have following disastrously natural event occurre need of help and sympathy, for the accursed One wonderful arcident of "Murphy Carbonari are after him, and he must not be Almanack" had just burst through the wint left to fall into their hands.
